Introduction

Nearly 1 million Pennsylvanians find themselves without health insurance either temporarily or permanently at any given time. The following groups of people are more likely join this population at some point during their lives:

- Self-employed individuals
- Employees of small business that do not offer health insurance
- Young adults moving off their parents' plans
- People in between jobs
- Widowed people
- Divorced people who have recently lost their spouse's coverage
- Retirees younger than 65 who lost their health benefits before becoming eligible for Medicare

While there are many programs available for the uninsured and the underinsured, it is a challenge for providers to offer health care services for low-income working families and identify and meet their specific health care needs. The uninsured and underinsured face an equally as difficult challenge in locating correct information on the various health insurance program and determining their eligibility for services. Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health provide this document, now in its fourth edition, as a guide of resources for extension educators and others to use to assist the uninsured in accessing health care options throughout the state.

This resource guide will allow extension educators and others to locate programs for low-income individuals seeking access to health care services. The guide identifies specific health care programs and services, listed by county, available to residents of Pennsylvania. Program summaries, descriptions of benefits, and eligibility and income requirements are included in each program description. Also included are telephone numbers, addresses, and links to websites. The most notable addition to this guide is the "Patient Navigator Contacts" section. This service is available during 2014 to assist uninsured and underinsured Pennsylvanians in determining their new coverage options created by recent health care reform. This resource guide also can be downloaded from the Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health's Web site at www.porh.psu.edu under "Publications."

Every attempt has been made to provide information in this resource guide that is current and correct. Please contact the Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health with updated information for any of the programs or offices listed. Those corrections will be included in the next edition of the resource guide.

Seniors

Medicare + Choice

Medicare
Program summary	A federal program of hospital and medical health insurance that is available to eligible individuals 65 and over or persons with a disability. There are four benefit parts to Medicare: Part A, B, C, and D.
Who is eligible?	Eligibility criteria: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • People age 65 and older • People under age 65 with certain disabilities • People of all ages with End-Stage Renal Disease (permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a kidney transplant)
What services are covered?	Part A (Hospital Insurance) Most people do not have to pay to receive this type of coverage. They help pay for care in hospitals as an inpatient, critical access hospitals (small facilities that give limited outpatient and inpatient services to people in rural areas), skilled nursing facilities (not custodial or long-term care), home health care services, and hospice care. Part B (Medical Insurance) Your Part B premium will be based on your income. Most people pay the standard monthly Part B premium of $104.90 if your annual income is below $85,000 ($170,000 for couples) and $147.00 as Part B deductible if they are a new enrollee (as of 2013). This helps pay for doctors' services, outpatient care, and other medical services that Part A doesn't. Part B helps pay for these covered medical services and items when they are medically necessary. Part B also covers some preventive services. Part C (Medicare Advantage) Available to individuals who are eligible for Part A, and enrolled in Part B coverage. Private health insurance companies contract with the federal government to provide Medicare benefits through their own policies. Medicare beneficiaries will be offered health insurance coverage through managed care programs (HMO's) and preferred provider organizations (PPO'S). Part D (Prescription Drug Coverage) Most people will pay a monthly premium for this coverage, based on the drug plan you select. This is available to everyone that qualifies for Medicare. Private companies provide the coverage. This program helps lower prescription drug cost.
